

December 11, 2010

Mr Anugraha John
Global Citizens for Sustainable Development
Bangalore
India

Dear John

Collaboration between Global Citizens for Sustainable Development and Centre for Social Entrepreneurship & Philanthropy

Thank you very much for initiating the collaboration between Global Citizens for Sustainable Development and National University of Singapore's Centre for Social Entrepreneurship & Philanthropy.

This collaboration has enabled a team of 5 business undergraduates from National University of Singapore to carry out their final-year consulting practicum with Living Hope Children's Home in Bangalore. For their consulting practicum, the students have had the opportunity to assist Living Hope Children's Home on various strategy and management projects, from January 2010 through December 2010. The students have, in turn, learnt invaluable lessons on the social challenges confronting various communities in Bangalore, and how the community development efforts of Living Hope Children's Home and Global Citizens for Sustainable Development have helped to address some of these challenges.

The Centre for Social Entrepreneurship & Philanthropy in National University of Singapore looks forward to further collaborative efforts with Global Citizens for Sustainable Development.

Thank you.

Sincerely

Albert Chu-Ying Teo
Director, Centre for Social Entrepreneurship & Philanthropy
Associate Professor, NUS Business School